

The Camel

The Camel lives in desert, in Africa and in Asia.
It has two bumps on its backs.

It can run 20 miles per hour and 40 miles per hour too but not for a long time.

It has 4 stomachs and its feet are soft to walk in the sand.

Its eyelashes are well adapted: when its eyes are closed, the sand can't penetrate.

It can resist to high temperatures like 50 degrees.

It can stock a lot of water in its bumps so it doesn't need to drink for many weeks!

Then, it can drink 130 liters in ten minutes!

And it's strong so it can carry heavy things.
It can increase or decrease its temperature to minimize sweat.

The female can have a baby every 2 years until 30 years old.
